Session Objectives

The Future of Psychiatry: A Historical Perspective

John P. D. Shemo, MD, DFAPA

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a better understanding of the future direction of psychiatry, based on a historical perspective.
2. Differentiate various clinical trends.
3. Understand structural and administrative trends.
4. Discuss dangers inherent in these trends.

Psychiatry and Pain Management

Paul M. Spector, DO, DLFAPA

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Discuss the State and Federal statutes regarding the use of opioids in the management of chronic intractable pain.
2. Understand how to safely prescribe opioids for chronic pain by accessing the prescription monitoring program, taking a full history to include review of records, utilizing drug screens, and using universal precautions.
3. Recognize "red and yellow" flags for misuse and diversion.
4. Differentiate between neuropathic and perceptive pain.

Creating Opportunities: A Plan for Advancing Community-Focused Services in Virginia

James W. Stewart III

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Understand the strategic priorities that have been established for the public funded behavioral health and development services system.

Crossroads of Psychiatry and the Law

Varun Choudhary, MD

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Understand a general overview of the judicial branch.
2. Differentiate types of lawsuits / legal proceeding (i.e. civil vs criminal law).
3. Understand how tort law and malpractice affects them as it applies to the concept of medical liability reform.
4. Generally understand the pertinent topics in mental health law.

The Role of Psychotherapy in Private Practice

Kevin H. Spicer, MD

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Understand the role of psychotherapy in psychiatric practice.
2. Discuss split patient management with the psychiatrist providing medication management and the psychologist providing psychotherapy.
3. Know when psychotherapy is the treatment of choice in depression.

Will Modern Genetics Research Contribute to Psychiatric Practice?

John M. Hettema, MD, PhD

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Discuss the recent history of research efforts in psychiatric genetics.
2. Understand how current genetic studies in psychiatry and other medical fields are influencing our research paradigms.
3. Discuss the future prospects for genetics research to contribute to psychiatric knowledge and treatment.

Overall Objectives

The 2011 Fall Meeting will address current issues and controversies in Psychiatry. This program will address issues in Pain Management, Psychiatry in the Public Sector, Forensics with Associated Medical and Legal Issues and Genetics. The presenters will review specific issues and objectives in these fields in order for psychiatrists to better evaluate and treat patients.

Target Audience

This program was developed for Virginia Psychiatrists to address current issues and hot topics in mental health.

Accreditation

This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas and Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) through the joint sponsorship of the American Psychiatric Association (APA) and the Psychiatric Society of Virginia (PSV). The APA is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Designation

The American Psychiatric Association designates this live activity for a maximum of 5.5 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
